We have the logical organization and the circuit, and we will retain it even if we have to fight for it. There is no money in baseball in minor leagues under the present state of affairs. One or two club owners might make a little money, but the others are bound to lose. This will be the case as long as the minor leagues are not organ-ized for mutual protection. There is no doubt that minor leagues would prosper if all the minor leagues were represented in one organization.'

The great differences between the two organizations is the question of which is entitled to have clubs in Milwaukee and Kansas City. The American Association was the first to enter those two cities, and logically they should be members of the American Association and not the Western League, which is composed of smaller cities. The American Association would never agree to give up the two cities, and if there should be peace it would mean that the Western League would have to back down and out of those two places. The Western League under the present conditions has to maintain expensive teams in Milwaukee and Kansas City to be even considered opposition to the American Association clubs. That means that the other Western League clubs would have to employ more expensive players. If the Association of Minor Leagues would agree to force the Western League out of Milwaukee and Kansas City and acknowledge the contracts of players secured for next year by Association clubs it is believed that the Marshall Levey, of the Marion Club, will be in the game again next week. He dislo-American Association would not insist upon many other details in arranging peace. wonder. His bowling this season has been very steady, and that is the kind of bowl-John T. Brush handed a bunch of newspaper clippings to a reporter yesterday who ventured into his office to inquire if there was anything doing in baseball. "You will see that I am out of baseball, and therefore I have nothing to talk about. At least those newspaper articles say that I am out of the game," said Mr. Brush.

One of the clippings was a reprint from a Cincinnati paper that waged such a war against Mr. Brush when he was owner of the Cincinnati club. The article in question tried to give conclusive evidence that the story that Mr. Brush had purchased the New York club was nothing more than mere "tommyrot." It showed that the Cin-cinnati club was sold for $150,000 and al-leged that it was $90,000 in debt at the time of the sale. Figuring the amount of stock held by other parties, the article gave Mr. Brush credit with receiving but $30,000 cash from the sale of the Reds. It then went on to say that the New York club is a valuable investment and could not be purchased for less than several hundred thousand dollars making a guess at $200,000. sand dollars, making a guess at $300,000. It then insinuated that Mr. Brush did not buy the New York club and that the re-ported sale was given to the public as a preliminary scheme whereby Freedman stepped out, with the ultimate intention of securing the presidency of the National League. Then Brush and Freedman would have things their own way. "Some papers hire men at about $17.50 a week to write baseball. That is all they get and they figure the wealth of other men in the world in comparison with their own. I do not care to discuss the article at this ti.ne, as I hardly think it is worth the while. The meeting of the New York club will be held next month, and there Wilson and Minka, the only entries, finwill be another chapter for some of these fellows to talk about."

Billy Foster Boy had a hard fight in the :20 trot. Lucy Lee led at the wire in the first heat, but went under running. The four leaders were only noses apart. Wild still declares that, except in one instance, Wilton was favorite, but with the excep-tion of the second heat was not on the firing line. Billy Foster Boy won in he has all the men he fished for safely landed. Jesse Burkett is now said to be the man McGraw is trying to land, and, if reports are true, Burkett is willing if he gets the price. He is reported as saying he Daisy Field was a worthy foe for the favorite, Mustard, in the 2:16 class pace, will give Mr. Hedges a chance to meet any and was heavily backed in the books. She raise McGraw may offer him. The Fultz case is still a mystery, as both Hanlon and McGraw are sure they have the brilliant outfielder. The Greatest Clothing Store in America

Great in all the features that combine for protection in Clothing ready-for-wearing. Designers of it-makers of it-sellers of it.

In square feet of show room we double any other store here.

In volume of assortment—three, if not four times the largest.

In methods—the liberal policy and the strict and all-including guarantees that have always been conspicuous features of this store speak its enterprise, account for its uninterrupted success-making it a Saks store and making a Saks store popularly different from all other stores.

The Clothing itself-

We are preparing now the greatest display of Men's Ready-for-wear Clothing that has ever been made in this country. Our large show-windows will tell the story of this season's stock in abbreviation -the largest stock we have ever assembled.

The showing will hold no duplicates. It will accomodate only limited selections. But they will be representative garments-picked at random from the stock with the sole purpose of portraying accurately the quality-strength, the artistic-charm, and the price-magnetism of the entire collection.

It is Clothing we are justified in invoking the strongest adjectives to describe. It is Clothing we have made ourselves-expressly and especially for our clientage heremembodying those features of superiority and perfection taught by our close personal touch with your tastes and requirements. It is Clothing made in the lightest, brightest, cleanest workrooms dedicated to the service. Every worker in our corps of cutters and tailors is a graduate from the school of broadest experience. It must be the best Clothing because it begins with best fabrics, is shapen and sewn by best talent-and reaches these counters under the constant close scrutiny of our artistic and commercial interest-the most critical of censors.

We want the men of Indiana to know that we appreciate their share in the success of this "Greatest Clothing Store." You have helped to make it what it is. You have given our efforts for aggressive development of perfection the recognition that has kept us on the alert for betterment. You have shown your discriminating preference, and the broad patronage accorded has blazed the way for us to reach the goal of our ambition-TO BE SELLERS OF THE BEST CLOTHING IN THE WORLD -and through trade-volume enable us to minimize the cost-thereby making it the CHEAPEST.

Novelties that delight the tastes of the extremists mingle with the conservative styles that find favor with the men who eschew effect, seeking only intrinsic worth. Both are found here-standing on the solid foundation of substantial quality. "Fit Reform" has surmounted the last barrier to universal acceptance of ready-for-wear Clothing-in insuring a perfect fit to every man regardless of his individual requirements. And "Fit Reform" is a Saks-conception; a Saks-development; exclusively a Saks-feature-essential and necessary to your full and complete satisfaction.

We want the extraordinary window exhibit to be but the beacon that will attract you to a closer and more detailed inspection of the entire stock of BEST CLOTHING-and the retailing policy of this "GREATEST CLOTHING STORE IN AMERICA."

Yet, not more a Clothing Store than a Hat Store, a Shoe Store, a Haberdashery, and a Boys' Clothing Store. We're specialists in Men's and Boys' Wearables-and you get the keynote of our importance and our influence from our Clothing.
